

January 2012 News Update

New For 2012 at Jamats Activity Centre

Exciting News

Starting In January 2012 Jamats Activity Centre is delighted to announce the opening of its classroom for further education.

A lot of young adults with special needs are finishing education and beginning to embark on their adult lives, where the opportunity particularly to continue learning is somewhat limited. We have discovered that most parents of young adults with special needs and young adults themselves coming into our area of focus would like to continue with education, with particular focus on money budgeting, numeracy, literacy and life skills.

We have a very motivated, passionate and devoted Team member at Jamats, Mr Cory Bombera who will head our classroom. His sessions will consist of a wide range of topics as well as tutoring and mentoring his students to their specific needs. Mr Bombera has a keen passion for teaching and coaching and is a Bachelor of Science (Bsc) specialising in a wide variety of areas within the Applied Exercise Science field, many of which are highly transferrable to the special needs environment.

At Jamats Activity Centre we would like to offer young adults, particularly those just leaving school or further education somewhere to attend in order to continue learning. We believe there should be no age or time limit on the education process and would like to offer a friendly, relaxed and fun environment for learning. Jamats encourages participation for all levels and abilities, in a place where an individual can thrive and truly express themselves, whilst also continuing to develop their learning throughout their adult lives.

Also Jamats Activity Centre Youth Club

Jamats would also like to bring to your attention to a new initiative for 2012. Every Wednesday from 4pm - 6.30pm will be a youth club for school leavers and young adults with special needs. The Youth Club is aimed at creating a social hub for young adults with special needs, becoming somewhere for young adults to interact, meet new people and have fun.

The Jamats Youth Club will offer a range of activities dependant on the young persons needs, including games, competitions, dancing, disco and other forms of indoor entertainment. The facility has access to a fantastic matted exercise area, Nintendo Wii, Table Tennis and Football amongst others. There will also be a tuck shop to provide refreshments.
